

Abu Dhabi from the sky .. a unique journey that offers you scenes that you have not seen before of famous landmarks in the Emirates capital

Dubai, United Arab Emirates (CNN) - From the Emirates Palace to the Louvre Museum, the Emirati capital Abu Dhabi is abundant with many tourist and leisure destinations worth visiting. However, what do you think of a unique trip that enables you to see the most famous landmarks of the emirate with new eyes?

Since its founding in 2007, Dubai-based Seawings has provided tourists and residents with unique flights to see some of the Emirates cities and its famous landmarks from a completely different point of view, through flights on small sea jets for 9 people

The idea of the company was inspired while the CEO and founder of "Seawings", Stuart Wheeler, who has lived in the United Arab Emirates for more than 30 years, spent his time in Vancouver, Canada.

"I saw the planes flying to and from the Vancouver port and I thought it would be a great experience if we could integrate the idea of the sea, because of the UAE's heritage linked to the sea, and to provide an air tourism experience. And that's how it started," Wheeler explained in an interview with CNN in Arabic on the phone

Abu Dhabi with new eyes

Speaking of the tour that takes visitors over Abu Dhabi, Wheeler assured enthusiastically that the capital's view from the air was "truly astonishing

The tour lasts 25 minutes in Abu Dhabi, and it starts and ends on Yas Island. Through it, one can see stunning views of the nature of the capital, as well as its architectural side

During this tour, the plane flies over large areas of picturesque Crimea, over the Emirates Palace and its domes, and the architectural details of the Louvre Museum. From afar, one will also see many islands scattered off the coast, according to Lawler.

Tours of tourists and residents alike

And if you think you actually saw Abu Dhabi from the air while traveling by plane from outside the Emirates to land at Abu Dhabi International Airport, for example, you are wrong.

Wheeler explained that the maximum height of the aircraft is two thousand feet, or approximately 610 meters. In addition, the plane changes its height during the tour, and may reach a height of a thousand feet (approximately 305 meters) at times, providing a new and closer look to the features below

Wheeler also explained that the plane is ideal for excursions with stunning scenery.

Each of the 9 seats on the plane has its own window, which means that all passengers can enjoy the views over them without any hindrance to them.

Wheeler talked about the happiness of the participants in this experiment after the plane landed on the ground, as their faces are adorned with big smiles, and they usually shake hands with each other enthusiastically, and speak with the captain with suspense

Tourists from outside the UAE are not only rushing to these tours, as Wheeler stressed that many residents are interested in taking this experience as well.

While browsing customer reviews on TripAdvisor, Wheeler said laughing that one would see comments like "I have been living here for 20 years, and I never knew that this was what Abu Dhabi or Dubai looked like"